Python Software Foundation

To be eligible for membership in the Python Software Foundation (PSF) as a nominated member, a person must be nominated by a current member of the PSF. A nominated member will be admitted upon receipt of this completed application and a majority of the existing members of the PSF.

A sponsor member is similar to a nominated member in all respects except that a sponsor must pay a yearly fee to the PSF. The yearly fee is due upon the beginning of each fiscal year. From the due date, until the fee is paid, all membership rights of the sponsor member, including the right to vote and be counted for purposes of quorum, are suspended and terminated until the sponsor member's yearly fee has been paid in full.

The initial yearly fee is due upon admission to the PSF as a member on a pro-rata basis for the remainder of the fiscal year. The amount of the yearly fee may be changed from time to time by a majority vote of the sponsor members of record at that time. The current fee is US $2,000 per year.

Membership terms start quarterly and are effective on the first day of the quarter in which an application is accepted. The sponsor fee is pro-rated on a quarterly basis. Example: A sponsor member joins on May 1. The membership is effective as of April 1, the start of the second quarter. The sponsorship fee for the year would be 3/4 of the yearly fee.

A sponsor member must select an official representative to act on its behalf at member meetings. The official representative votes on behalf of the sponsor member and may serve on the board of directors.
